

New Housing Boss Steps Into Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's new housing boss, Norman P. Mason, will step squarely into the middle of a first-class row shaping up between Congress and the administration. He says he doesn't mind at all.

Mason, told a reporter today that anyone with a little fighting spirit and red blood in his veins should welcome the give and take that goes with presenting a controversial program to a critical Congress. That's the way democracy works, he said.

The controversy, in this case, is the extent of government housing programs under Eisenhower's efforts to hold down spending. Democratic critics have proposed more spending for housing.

Mason, now head of the Federal Housing Administration, was nominated by Eisenhower to head the agency. The 62-year-old Massachusetts Republican will change offices as soon as the Senate confirms his nomination.

The top HHA post is being vacated by Albert M. Cole, who made it plain to newsmen he won't be at all sad to miss this year's give and take on Capitol Hill.

Cole will become an aluminum company executive.

U.S. FIRMS' STAKE IN CUBA—Despite rebel leader Fidel Castro's avowed intention of nationalizing foreign industries in Cuba, American investors seem optimistic regarding the security of their island properties. Newsmap shows some outstanding investments of American companies. Total U.S. stake in Cuba is estimated at about 774 million dollars, including 285 million in agriculture—largely sugar—51 million in petroleum and 318 million in public utilities.

MORE THAN A MOUSER—When most hunters go after rabbits they take a dog along, but the hunting companion of John McCormack, 12, is his big cat, Nimrod. The cat loves to go along on an all-afternoon hunt and is as good as most dogs when it comes to retrieving wounded game. John lives on the outskirts of Vincennes, Ind.

Mental Patient Shoots, Kills His Parents

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—A young man discharged from a mental hospital 2 1/2 months ago told police he shot and killed his parents "because they made me practice the accordion 8 or 10 hours a day."

Slight, sandy-haired David K. Sandahl, 20, was booked on two counts of suspicion of murder Thursday night.

Sheriff's Capt. Harold Guerin said Sandahl admitted shooting his parents with a .22 revolver. He was discharged Nov. 1 from DeWitt State Hospital, a mental institution. He had entered the hospital in May, a month after the family arrived from Pontiac, Mich.

The father, Ewald L. Sandahl, 52, was a production engineer employed at the Aero-Jet rocket plant and had worked on the atomic bomb at Oak Ridge, Tenn. His wife, Elizabeth Mae, was 55.

A traffic accident in which the son was involved led to discovery of the bodies Wednesday. Sandahl fled on foot after running his father's car into a ditch.

The highway patrol traced the car to the Sandahl residence, about 18 miles from Sacramento. The small frame cottage was locked, but patrolmen saw the body of the father in the living room. They forced their way in and found the body of Mrs. Sandahl in a bedroom. Each had been shot in the head.

THE STORY: Many people resent the return of Gil Yeager who had been a fugitive until he was able to clear himself of a murder charge. Sheriff Clint Hyatt tells his deputy, Ollie Ladd, that he will pursue a middle course, between Yeager and the cattle combine.

Chapter V
Lying back in George Cyle's chair, Gil Yeager savored fully the unaccustomed luxury of a barber's ministrations. The past hour he'd spent soaking in the tub in Cyle's back room, and he was now dressed in clean, new and fresh from Patch Kelly's shelves.

He went out into the brightness of mid-morning and had his second good look at this town of Tuscadero. Some life was on the street. There saddle mounts stood at the hitch rail of the Golden Horn, while a single one dozed before the gladsopole bar.

Up street, Ollie Ladd came away from the courthouse and moved along as far as the Golden Horn, where he started to turn around. Spying Yeager he paused and stood staring. For a long half minute, this dark and unreadable situation held, before Ollie wheeled into the barroom.

A thread of tension crawled up Gil Yeager's spine, chilling out some of his new-found sense of well-being. No man, he reflected soberly, could be entirely sure of what was stirring in the murky recesses of Ollie Ladd's mind, nor what wild impulse might govern his mood at any time. One thing, however, could be surely counted on: Once Ollie Ladd hated, it was for all time.

The relaxed ease faded from Yeager's face and he crossed to Patch Kelly's store. Patch looked him up and down.

"The clothes seem to fit all right. Or did you forget something?"

"Not forgotten, Patch. Just something I had to think about, and I've done my thinking. What you got on the gun rack?"

Lins pursed the storekeeper considered him soberly.

"Now it is my business to sell folks what they want to buy. But just now, Gil Yeager, I'm not sure I want to sell. I'd not like seeing you in trouble again."

"Patch," said Yeager, "it comes to me that the only way I could stay free of trouble on Summit Prairie would be to take my foot in my hand and run. Well, I'm not going to run. I didn't come back here to run. So let's have a look at those guns!"

Patch Kelly turned up his hands, jerked his head toward the rack. "Your business."

Gil wound up with a rifle and a six-gun, a saddle boot for the rifle and a belt and holster for the pistol.

Out in the street a buckboard lives near the Sandahl residence, heard a police radio report. Minutes later Mabry noticed David hitchhiking, gave the youth a lift and persuaded him to let him call police.

Asked why he killed, he replied "I just couldn't take any more from them. My father made me practice the accordion 8 or 10 hours a day."

"I couldn't get out of the house, go out with girls, play ball or anything else."

WOC Has General Meeting
The women of the Presbyterian Church met for the general meeting at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon in the McCrae Memorial Room.

For as I remember him, he was a great one to play things peaceful and safe and sure.

A short, terse bitterness broke from Laurie. "Have with the right to charge anyone with playing matters state and sure!"

Burke leached over and patted her hand. "You'll do to take along. We've just got to play the cards dealt us the best way we know how."

Gil Yeager, finished with the cleaning of his guns, was filling the laps of his gambel with the fat, yellow cartridges. At the sound of Burke Benedict's measured, solid step at the store doorway he looked up, saw who was entering, then slid from the counter and stood guardedly watching.

Coming from the outside brightness into the store's shadowy confines, neither Burke or Laurie Benedict were aware of Yeager's presence. But on moving nearer the counter, Laurie seemed to feel the intensity of his regard, for she stopped short and met his glance with a swift turned head. He touched his hat.

"Hello, Laurie."

Burke swung around.

"Yeager!" He let it stand that way for a moment, then added in milder tone, "Just heard you were back on the prairie."

A hint of the sardonic showed in Yeager's eyes. "Word does travel."

"Laurie, head high, flayed Gil with the stormiest of glances."

The telephone rings. It's an invitation to dinner, a small party or the theater that evening. It's last-minute but then many invitations are. What's a girl to do? This girl (left) is ready. And she doesn't need a suitcase full of accessories to get her from office to date. With minutes to go, she strips off her old make-up (center) and applies fresh. Here, she's highlighting eyelids and lashes with petroleum jelly. It won't run, smear or rub off. Off comes the jacket of her Empire silk sarong dress (right) and she's ready for the evening. She'll add fresh white gloves from a box in her desk but otherwise, she's in no need of dramatic, time-consuming tricks. She uses much the same technique for dates made in advance. And she never wears a date dress to the office.

The winter months, with woolen clothes and indoor heating, make frequent use of a deodorant essential. This girl uses one that sponges on the liquid in seconds.

DOROTHY DIX

Tell the Freeloaders
There's "No Vacancy"

Four years ago I married a widower with two grown daughters. Two years ago the older girl came "home," as she calls it, to have another baby. She stayed here 10 months, without paying for anything, although her husband makes $400 a month. He has decided to go back to college in the fall and they are planning on coming back here with three children. My husband's younger daughter, who is 24, lives home and doesn't pay board. Their father was in debt when I married him. He's retired on a small pension and I'm working to support three of us. I don't see how I can take them any further. My husband says he can't stop them from coming and won't ask for board. I've taken much to keep peace but I'm at the limit of endurance now. — Nellie G.

Dear Nellie: Arm yourself with an impressive list of figures showing income and outgo, and present them to your stepdaughters. Show them, in red and white, that they can't feed eight people on the same amount that has barely fed three. Tell them they will have to meet the difference. Since the family grocery bill depends on you, you must keep in good health so you can continue earning enough to pay it. Point out the fact that if you get sick the burden must necessarily fall on them, if they are members of the household. Most people will get away with anything they can but when confronted with some good sense, they become responsible. You and your husband have just been letting the daughters get away with too much.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

For the past two years I've had a crush on Kenny but we've only been dating for two months. I'm just crazy about him and now he's gone to the Yukon. At last I realize how much I love him. I'd like to go steady with him but he's too shy to ask me — Nan.

Dear Nan: Going steady with a boy in the Yukon would be quite a trick. He isn't shy; just prudent. At 15 you wouldn't want to be pledged to a boy so far away, would you? Correspond with Kenny if he asks you; his letters could be interesting travelogues. But don't get serious about him until he comes home — if he comes home.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

My girl friend is forever criticizing my clothes. I have nice things, keep them cleaned and pressed and don't know what she has to find fault about — Ginger.

Dear Ginger: Re-read the fable of the fox and the grapes. Your girl friend has a case of sour grapes. Does she dress as well as you do or keep her things as nice? If not, maybe you could help her. If you can help a friend overcome a fault you have earned the name of friend.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I'm 15. Whenever personal questions are discussed in school, I'm dumb. My mother refuses to answer questions or tell me anything about sex. Don't you think I should be told? — Julie.

Dear Julie: Since you aren't being told, read. Many girls have the same problem and I have prepared a list of books that cover everything you want to know. Being told by mother is better, of course, but some mothers just are not articulate when it comes to discussing sex. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my booklet "Sex Education For Teenagers." The books mentioned are not expensive and are readily available.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am 18 years old and go with a boy the same age. I ask him to get dressed up once in a while so we can go somewhere but he never does. All I see him in is jeans. I think a lot of him but he doesn't and practical method. But his mention of possible other methods—his first such suggestion in years—could introduce a degree of flexibility in the U.S. position in case the Russians seriously want to negotiate.

State Department officials said Mikoyan's cross-country tour appears to have been a great success from the Soviet viewpoint. But they have found little evidence of a real Soviet willingness to make any concessions to solve the East-West dispute over Germany.

Hope Negroes Will Keep Voting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers says he hopes Negroes will keep trying to register and vote — even if they have been turned away in the past.

Those who have been refused voting rights are reluctant to try again, Rogers told a news conference. But, he added, "I hope that Negro eligibles will get over this."

Rogers said the administration's new civil rights proposals to Congress will include a request that the Justice Department be given direct subpoena powers in connection with voting investigations. He declined to say anything else about the program.

Dear Helen: For his own sake the boy should learn to be well groomed. Employers take a dim view of young men who look for jobs in jeans. If he hasn't enough interest in his own future to dress for it, write him off as experience.

IH Council to Discuss Wage Proposal

CHICAGO (AP) — The UAW-International Harvester Co. Council meets today to approve or reject a proposed contract agreement to end a long and costly strike of 37,000 workers against the farm implement firm.

The council's recommendations, in turn, will be presented to each of the Harvester locals for final action.

The council, composed of a delegate from each of the Harvester locals, meets amid reports of dissension among UAW negotiators concerning the pact, hammered out after weeks of bargaining.

Reversing a previous announcement, the UAW negotiating team Thursday said that after a majority vote by its members it will recommend rejection of the settlement.

It did not amplify the statement. The majority vote is binding.

A still-confident Harvester spokesman said the company fully expects the council to accept the agreement.

Thursday was a surprise. On Wednesday, negotiators for the company and union appeared to have reached agreement on a three-year contract.

The new wage agreement called for annual pay increases of 6 cents an hour or 2 1/2 per cent, whichever is greater, during the three-year contract. Wages averaged $2.55 an hour under the old contract.

Hall of Fame Launched in Arkansas Sports

By JOHN R. STARR

Little Rock, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas' first hall of fame, installing five members before a packed crowd of more than 500 in Arkansas' largest banquet room.

Chosen from a list of 20 nominees, which in turn was rigidly pruned from the lengthy roster of Arkansas sports luminaries were:

Bill Dickey, all-time great catcher and coach of the New York Yankees.

Jim Lee Howell, successful coach of the New York Giants, who last season guided his club to an Eastern Division championship in the National Football League.

Hazel Walker, one of the top stars in women's basketball for the past 25 years.

Ivan Grove, beloved head coach of Hendrix College, a Methodist school at nearby Conway, for more than 30 years.

And Weezy Schomover, one of the University of Arkansas' all-time standout football players.

Tickets to the installation banquet were sold out the first day they were offered to members of the Arkansas Hall of Fame, Inc., the organization which initiated the hall of fame last year.

"Arkansas has had many great athletes," said Jack Pickens, president of Hall of Fame, Inc.

"But I doubt if we could have selected five who are more representative."

All five natives except Grove became a resident in 1924, the year he came to coaching at Hendrix after turning down an offer to become an assistant to the famed Fielding Yost at Michigan.

Grove, a 16-letter man at Kendall College, now Tulsa University, received a mail sack containing more than 700 letters from former players and students at Hendrix.

"There is no man in Arkansas sports who is better loved," said Boots Coleman, dairy owner who played under Grove in the late 1920s. "More young people in the right direction than any other man."

Ray R. Stephens, millionaire Little Rock investment broker and longtime friend of Dickey's, introduced the ex-Yankee as "a man who hates to lose."

"The driving necessity to win made Dickey what he became," said Stephens. "This drive dominates every game he has played, from baseball to checkers."

Billy Dunaway, who coached Miss Walker during the prime of her career, said she "always worked like a rookie trying to make the team," even after she had been named 10 times to the AAU women's All-America team.

Miss Walker still plays seven nights a week from October to May, with her own barnstorming team, which meets and beats men's teams in all states. She first began playing basketball at Ashdown High School in 1930.

Schoonover is known in Arkansas as the university's first All-American. He was named to a team picked by sportswriter Grantland Rice in 1929. Schoonover, now a Washington, D. C., businessman, also was named to all Southwest Conference teams in basketball and track.

Schoonover was introduced by George Cole, now University of Arkansas assistant coach but a teammate of the Pocatamos native's during his playing days.

"They talk a lot about desire in sports," said Schoonover. "Let me tell you, how Coach Francis Schmidt created desire at Arkansas."

"On road trips, those who were regulars got to sleep in an upper berth alone. Subs doubled up in the lower berths to save money. That gave us terrible desire to be regulars."

Howell was introduced by Glen Rose, now Arkansas head basketball coach who arrived at the university in 1933.

Howell, with little high school sports background, developed into a standout in both basketball and football at the university and later played with the Giants before joining the coaching staff.

"When I was thinking about becoming a coach," he asked, "Glen what he thought about it?" Howell said, "He told me to stay out of the profession. But later he relented and told me he wouldn't swap his coaching career for any other job and I feel the same way now."

Joe Gargiola of St. Louis, baseball broadcaster for the Cardinals, served as toastmaster.

Atkinson, Leading Jockey, to Quit

NEW YORK (AP)—Ted Atkinson, one of the world's top jockeys, said today he was retiring from riding, on the advice of his doctor.

The Canadian-born jockey, who returned Thursday from Miami for treatment of a chronic sciatica, said he may accept a position as a racing official at the New York tracks.

Atkinson said he conferred with Dr. Alexander Kaye, chief surgeon at Physicians' Hospital and also the doctor for the Jockey Guild and was advised to give up racing.

British Champ Hastily Takes the Challenge

NEW YORK (AP)—Archie Moore, as adept at publicity as he is at boxing, today accepted a challenge to fight England's two top heavyweights today.

To back it up, he offered $150,000 to Henry Cooper who earlier this week outpointed Brian London for the British heavyweight championship.

"I see where Cooper wants $140,000 to fight Floyd Patterson, but the world title," ageless Archie declared at the Boxing Writers' Assn. annual dinner.

"I'll do better for him," asserted Archie. "I'll give him $150,000 to fight me."

"What's more I'm willing to fight not only Cooper, but London a week apart to establish myself as the rightful contender for the heavyweight title."

Moore, who received the Edward J. Neil award as the fighter of the year for 1958, didn't mention Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, but it probably was just an oversight.

Moore had a crack at the heavy crown back in 1956, but was knocked out by Patterson in five rounds.

"I didn't look so good in that fight," acknowledged Archie. "I was willing to wait in line, but now—"

LONDON (AP)—Jim Wicks, manager of British Heavyweight Champion Henry Cooper, said today he had cabled Archie Moore accepting an unusual guarantee of $150,000. The fight would be in London, probably in June.

At the Boxers Writers Assn. dinner in New York Thursday night Moore said he would give Cooper $150,000.

"If Moore guarantees us the $150,000 pounds then the fight is on," Wicks said. "It could then take place in London in June and with this money already in the bank, Floyd Patterson or possibly one with Ingemar Johansson, of Sweden."

Buchholz Is Beaten in Australia

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
ADELAIDE (AP)—Earl Buchholz, of St. Louis, acclaimed the world's outstanding junior, became the first major casualty of the Australian National Tennis Championship today. And then in a fit of depression, said he may quit the game.

Later, after cooling off a bit, he amended the threat to say "I would like to knock off for six months and get back in the right frame of mind."

The unpredictable 18-year-old Missourian, listless and lacking in fire, fell before Neil Gibson, unranked Australian in a second-round match on the Memorial Drive courts. The score was 8-6, 6-4, 1-6, 6-1.

It was a miserable day for the lean crooked American. He accidentally cracked his best two rackets. He served 24 double faults. He held his opponent's temper, but in doing so apparently lost his fight and determination.

At the intermission, trailing two sets to one, Buchholz was summoned from the dressing room to the stands and given a pep talk by Perry Jones, captain of the United States Davis Cup team.

Jones reminded Buchholz of his obligation to the U. S. Lawn Tennis Assn. which spent about $5,000 to send the boy to Australia and exhorted him "don't think of yourself. Think of the association, St. Louis and your family back home."

Buchholz told his captain that he had no heart for the game and perhaps he should give it up.

"I can't play my best because I am always blowing my top," he said.

Jones counseled that a long rest might do Buchholz good, that he must conquer this temper and cultivate a better attitude before he can reach greatness.

Buchholz plans to continue in junior tournament.

The defeat of Buchholz left three members of the U. S. Davis Cup team, still in the fight. All scheduled to play Saturday for the right to enter the round of 16.

Topseeded Alex Olmedo, Peruvian hero of the Davis Cup Challenge Round, faces Wayne Reid, Australian.

Barry MacKay, Dayton, Ohio, plays Queensland junior Ken Fletcher and Chris Crawford, Piedmont, Calif., meets Barry Phillips Moroe, Australia.

Figures Win Streak Best for Nerves

By DON WEISS

Associated Press Sports Writer
Jack Gardner, the sometimes excitable Utah basketball coach who swigs two quarters of milk a game to soothe his hurts, has a much more pleasant remedy today—a tidy winning streak and first place in the Skyline Conference.

The Utes' string went to five and their conference record to 3-0 Thursday night in a 70-50 whipping of New Mexico. With a combination of brawn and height on the court, Gardner probably has the quietest stomach since he bagged his last Skyline title three seasons ago.

Since the consolation finals of the ECAC Holiday Festival in New York last month, the Utes have been winging in championship form.

Dick Ruffell, a dandy sophomore slipped in 18 points as Utah hit at a 48.6 per cent pace against New Mexico. Carney Crisler and Jim Rhead, two others who rode the bench only three weeks ago, have helped the Utes in the conference race.

Denver, with George De Ros and Bob Grinstead each scoring 16, routed Montana 62-22 in another Skyline game and Virginia won the first Atlantic Coast Conference game in seven titles, 80-67 over Duke as Paul Adkins scored 24 points and 6-7, 240-pound Herb Busch added 20.

George Washington had a 54.8 shooting percentage in walloping Virginia Military 79-63 in Southern Conference play behind 30 points from Billy Talaskey and 19 from Bucky McDonald.

In the Ohio Valley Conference, Morehead of Kentucky defeated East Tennessee 33-7 and Eastern Kentucky routed Middle Tennessee 62-46.

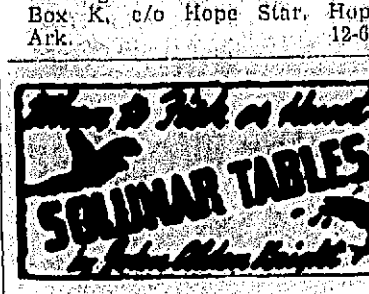

Villanova, with soph Jim Huggett scoring 26 points, begged its 10th victory in 11 games, 101-75

Buffalo, N. Y. (AP)—Lou Campi is philosophical about his 259 game in the All Star Bowling Tournament here Thursday.

"I just gambled and I lost," smiled the Dumont, N. J., ace.

Campi had tossed eleven perfect strikes before the last ball hit the headpin full and left the 3-pin intact.

"I was just trying to make sure I hit the headpin. I made up my mind I would try to come in a little higher than usual. I just put a little too much on it, I guess."

Campi ought to be something of an expert on 300 games. He has rolled nineteen perfect stanzas, including the last perfect game in the All Star.

Despite his scoring splash, Campi was only seventh in the 10-man finals field.

Bob Hitt, 36-year-old milkman from Livonia, Mich., was leading the parade with a point total of 82-01. Hitt had won 11 of 16 games, downing 3,551 pins.

Hitt's 220-203-245-278-046 third-round bonny was the major ingredient in his race to the top of the standings board.

The end of the first day of the finals found defending champion Don Carter of St. Louis in 10th place, with 75-24 points. Other members of Carter's team, the national champion Budweisers, were faring better.

Ray Bluth, Bill Lillard and Tom Henessey were second, fourth and fifth, respectively. The Falstaff team of St. Louis also had a front runner in Bill Weln. Falstaff Captain Buzz Fazio was in 12th place with teammate Harry Smith in 13th.

Marion Ladewig took the feminine lead with 40-17 points, reeling a 9-2 record and a pinfall of 1,717.

Two Games in Southwest League Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The two games that will be played tonight ought to help break up the five-way tie for second place in the Southwest Conference basketball race.

Texas Christian has the lead all to itself with a 4-0 conference record. But Arkansas, Texas A&M, Southern Methodist, Texas Tech and Baylor are jammed up in the second spot with 2-2 marks.

Rice and Texas are trailing with 1-3 each.

Tonight's schedule sends Texas to meet Texas A&M at College Station and Baylor to tangle with Rice at Houston.

Tomorrow night Texas Tech played host to pace-setter TCU. Texas takes on Baylor at Waco Monday night before all teams take time out to concentrate on mid-term exams.

HEY SYLVESTER

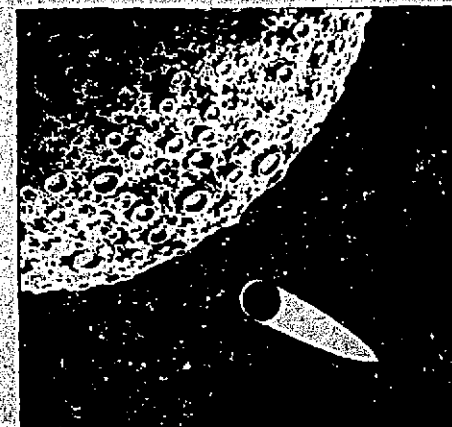

FLYING SAUCERS—Increased information on the sun's energy processes could explain sightings of unidentified flying objects. If the rocket can establish the existence of unique particles of energy and X-rays from the sun, "flying saucers" seen on earth may be shown up as only unique atmospheric tricks of solar origin.

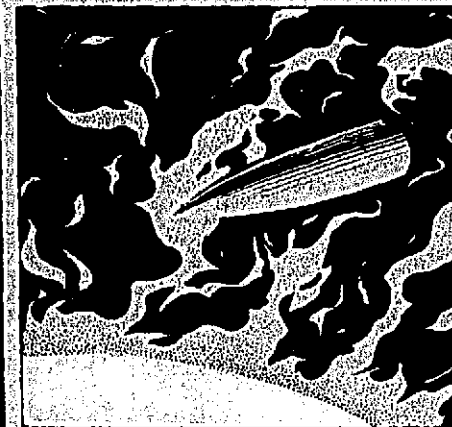

BIRTH OF THE MOON—If the moon is found to have a weak magnetic field it would support the theory that it was torn loose from the earth's surface billions of years ago, giving it only sparse iron deposits. High gravity would indicate larger metal content and suggest it had beginnings separate from earth.

"EMPTY" SPACE—Recent rocket shots have indicated that space is not entirely vacant, but has density. The theory that the planets were formed from condensed gases may gain support as Lunik and later devices reach out millions of miles, sending back a description of man's most challenging frontier—space.

Cosmic mysteries, which can be solved only partially by man's telescopes, may be unraveled by the new Soviet rocket, "Lunik." Decoded messages from the outskirts of space could describe the moon's gravity, heat of the sun and radiation in space—expanding knowledge on such controversial subjects as these:

SUN'S TEMPERATURE—Some optical measurements reveal a surface temperature on the sun of about 5,000 degrees, while others indicate millions of degrees. Although signals from Lunik ceased while the rocket was still far from the sun, it may have recorded information that will throw light on this question.

SPACE FLIGHT—The belt of cosmic radiation around the earth, first discovered by American scientists, may be further investigated by the Soviet rocket instruments. Intense radiation could hamper future manned space travel. Measurements of the moon's radioactivity also could assist in revealing its age.

YOU'RE ENTIRELY WELCOME—Fairborn, Ohio, a town of 15,000 between Springfield and Dayton, has done away with straggling welcome signs from various clubs at the outskirts of the city. The Lions Club has erected a series of signs like the above which lump all the symbols together.

ETCHED INTO HISTORY—A skilled engraver at the Federal Mint in Munich, Germany, makes castings for a series of gold medallions that will be issued at banks in commemoration of the crowning of Pope John XXIII. Using a special machine, the engraver moves a stylus in his right hand along the etched portions of a large master die. A cutting tool, rear center, is linked mechanically with the stylus. This cuts the reduced design on a casting that will produce the actual medallions.
